

What happens if there comes a time when you are not able to make your own decisions about your health, accommodation, personal decisions and finances?

How can you be sure that your decisions will be made to reflect your wishes, views and values and by the people that you choose?

The Public Advocate wants to help you to plan ahead so that you have the necessary documents in place to ensure that you will be at the centre of all decision making regarding your life.

To get up to date information about informal arrangements, Advance Care Directives and Enduring Powers of Attorney

You are invited to an interactive Information Session called Empowerment in Decision Making

The session will answer frequently asked questions such as;

When can a person make these documents? What kind of decision does each document cover? When do the documents come into effect? What are informal arrangements for people who aren't able to make their own decisions?

The session will be held at the Office of the Public Advocate
